What's on the programme

SDC2012 is about bringing together people who work with software development, to discuss new ideas, views on industry trends, and exchange experiences.

As in previous years, we have all the news about the latest tools and frameworks for both the Java and .Net platforms, as well as plenty about development for the Web, IBMi, and Mobile devices. There are also tracks for developers who specialize in Testing, and Software Architecture. We again have a wide selection of talks for Leaders, Managers, Scrum Masters and Coaches. This year we have broadened the conference scope to include others who work closely with development teams, and have more in-depth talks on up-and-coming technologies. Take a look at our new tracks: Usability and Interaction Design, Big Data, Javascript, and Product Owners.

Also new for this year, is the programme of tutorials. This is a chance to follow up a broad programme of talks with in-depth training from some of the experts who will be gathered in Göteborg for SDC2012. For more information, see the detailed programme on the website scandevconf.se.

Scandinavian Developer Conference 2012

Scandiavian Developer Conference brings the world of software development to Göteborg. Over two conference days and two tutorial days, more than 80 thought leaders present a programme of talks and discussions for the whole software development team. Don't chance your precious few annual training days on anything less.

The Scandinavian Developer Conference 2012 (SDC2012) will be held at Göteborg Convention Center (Svenska Mässan) on April 16-17, 2012, followed by two days of tutorials April 18-19.

Come to SDC2012 and learn about what's new, what's hot, and above all, what works.
